Create a remote.it account

To use remote.it, you need a remote.it account. If you wish to use remote.it, please contact your amnimo sales representative to sign up for a remote.it subscription.

We will send an invitation to create a remote.it account to those who have applied to use remote.it. Follow the instructions to create an account.

CAUTION

- If you are applying for remote.it after applying for Device Management System
  Please contact amnimo customer support with your company name, customer name, email address used in your remote.it account, device name, and the completion date of the setup after you have completed the creation of your remote.it account. Please contact amnimo customer support with your company name, customer name, email address used in your remote.it account, device name, and setup date.
  - https://support.amnimo.com/hc/ja/requests/new
- If you would like to use Amnimo's products as samples, please contact us at
  . You can use our pre-created remote.it account to test and evaluate our products. If you wish to use Amnimo's products as samples, please request this service when you apply for sample use.

Create a remote.it account.
When you receive an invitation from Amnimo to create a remote.it account, follow the instructions in the invitation to create a remote.it account.